

Ten questions to the Members of the Electoral College:

The eyes of the world and the signators of the Constitution are upon you, as you vote for president of the United States of America on December 19,2016. Our county's Founding Fathers, including George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, Alexander Hamilton, William Livingston, James Madison, entrusted the Electoral College with the task of protecting the integrity of the presidency.

Victorious World War II Supreme Allied Commander of the European Forces and later President of the United States, General Dwight David Eisenhower, one of the greatest defenders of democracy in the history of our country, might ask you these questions:

- Did Donald Trump's campaign prove him qualified to serve as president? Did he fairly and squarely earn the presidency?
- Did Donald Trump's campaign honor our system of government?
- Does he possess the integrity to lead our great military and carry the proud banner of our Western Values for the Free World?
- Is he worthy to follow in the footsteps of the men who have lead our country in the past?
- Does he have the moral integrity to set an example for men and women, girls, and boys in our society; what will our country be like after four years of his leadership?

Leadership means making very hard and lonely decisions over the lives of millions of people.

- Does Donald Trump possess the experience, wisdom, education, and intelligence to make the right choices for our country when the chips are down?
- Will we be proud of his leadership 20 years after his term is over?
- Are you proud of him now?
- Your life and the lives of your children, brothers and sisters depend on your choice for president. Are you ready to make that commitment to them for Donald Trump?

Thank you for considering these questions. Old 'Ike' would be proud of you.

Good luck and be proud of the honor bestowed upon you at this critical moment in your country's history.

Yours thankfully,

Paul Gregory Dolan,

Chair, Economic Forum Deutschland, born in New York City, studied at Drake, Georgetown and The American Universities, history, government, international relations, and economics. Entrepreneur, author, philanthropist, and public servant. Voting in California.